Next Generation ABAP Development Rich Heilman, Thomas Jung

This book shows advanced ABAP programmers new concepts, technologies, techniques, and functions that have been introduced to the ABAP in the last few years. Based on a single real-world example that runs throughout the book — a university upgrading from SAP R/3 4.6C to SAP NetWeaver 7.0 (2004s) — you'll follow along with the university's lead ABAP developer as he develops a custom course booking system. This unique approach allows readers to view the entire process of design, development, and testing — right through the eyes of a developer. You'll quickly familiarize yourself with all of the new possibilities in ABAP while discovering a series of actual scenarios that could easily be encountered in a real-life project. In certain areas the authors also provide you with a glimpse towards upcoming ABAP releases, as well as references to former releases, as required.

Highlights include:

- New ABAP Workbench Capabilities
- Strings and Binary Strings in Transparent Tables
- Web Service Proxies, Exposing Web Services
- Persistent Objects, ZIP Compression, Shared Memory Objects
- ABAP Unit
- Regular Expressions
- Web Dynpro ABAP, Web Dynpro Debugger View
- SAP Interactive Forms by Adobe, Business Server Pages, AJAX
- Visual Composer, Portal Eventing, SAP NetWeaver Business Client
