Designs to Color Book 1: The Original Coloring Books for Adults Betty Schaffner
In the 1960s, Price Stern Sloan published what was probably the first coloring book for adults as well as kids. Designs to Color was created by Betty Schaffner who believed that people of all ages had an innate imagination and artistic talent that conventional coloring books failed to spark and nurture. Her varied line drawings, sometimes abstract and sometimes recognizable - flowers, faces and animals - will lead any "color-er" into winding paths and jungles of form and into their own worlds of imagination.

No two drawings will ever be the identical and even the same person can create completely different moods by changing colors and mediums.

From crayons to markers to watercolors, Designs to Color Book 1 will ignite creative ability and fun with 23 original pieces of art which, when finished, look great framed.

Whether you're discovering them for the first time or remember them from childhood, Designs to Color will bring out the kid in you... no matter what age you are!
