Then also very like rather easy, 15; but Western countries anyhow, anyplace also make can roads, eh? 39. Supposing have man say, 'This C place is mine, 15, not allow you make one length road through over go.' I only generally speak for you to-hear only, 15, 7. Not is long-short tell all out come, 15. Take people's, 15, land as-a-matter-of-course give back money them. Supposing people want-obtain (too) money much, have officals trydecide, 12. Then which C. makes those iron road, eh? M. I think must use very much money make, 32. CONVERSATION 41st.--The railway,--(Continued.) 16. Certainly, it costs a great deal of money. They are to be found everywhere in Western countries. In some countries the Government makes them, and if there is a profit the Government gets it; in some countries the people make them. 17. How can the people make them? I can understand the Government constructing them. 18. A great number of people join together and form a company. They get permission from Parliament to construct the railway; and certain regulations are made to which the Company have to adhere. 19. How are the iron roads made? Probably there is a great deal of work required over them. 20. You are right. There ii a great deal of work about them. First of all a road has to be made with stones and earth; and the more level it is the better. The surface must be smooth; and it is bett...
