Why Die of Colon Cancer? Francis G., M.D. Mackey
Cancer of the colon is the second most common cause of cancer death among men and women in North America. However, almost nobody would die of this kind of cancer if they had appropriate colon examinations beginning at age 50.

Francis G. Mackey, M.D., a retired cardiologist who has been fighting his own battle with colon cancer for the last two years, has written Why Die of Colon Cancer ? (Rutledge Books, Inc., December 2000, $11.95) an authoritative, thoroughly accessible guide to the identification and management of this prevalent disease. Why Die of Colon Cancer? demystifies a terrifying diagnosis to empower patients in the decision-making process of their own treatment.

By sharing his intensely personal experience, Dr. Mackey opens an informative forum of discussion on the readily available preventative screening and the encouraging effectiveness of the most current therapeutic cancer technologies.
