Mystery: Lemon Pie Murder (Book 3) ((Sweet Murder Cozy Woman Sleuth Mystery Detective)) Lorrie Bannett
“Well, it looks like we are having ourselves an old fashion standoff!” the commander said, his gun pulled out and pointed at one of the assailants.

,b>Agent Morris was still in tears, trying as much as possible not to break down while pointing her gun at the man who had just come back from the dead. All of the forensic scientists, with the exclusion of Agent McCartney, were all on the floor with their hands over their heads.

If at all one bullet were to fly, then there was absolutely no way that they were ever going to survive an assault. And that said, the only thing that could have been done at the time was to wait and see how things were going to play out in the end.

“Ok, I need all of you to put your guns down. We have outnumbered you and “I know how this looks, but no one is going out of here alive.”

And it was at that point that Agent McCartney smiled despite a cold gun barrel being pressed hard against his sweaty forehead.

“I think you all should surrender. I mean the dead man as well as your friends. The entire station just heard the conversation and the S.W.A.T. team will be here shortly. So I suggest that you lay your arms.”

But no one moved. From the look of things, they were all ready to die.
